JOB SUMMARY

AGLC is looking for a dynamic professional to join its growing Information Technology Division. The IT Business Consulting team has been created to provide an innovative, flexible, integrated approach to drive the adoption of corporate growth and modernization initiatives.

Reporting to the Director, IT Business Consulting, the Senior Manager, Business Analysis is responsible for the operation of the Business Analysis team which is currently comprised of three Team Leads and almost 20 Business Analysts. The team will look to you to draw on your knowledge and experience to develop and implement governance, standards, and best practices. You will lead and mentor the team in maturing Business Analysis capabilities by coaching Team Leads, creating templates, facilitating professional development, and ensuring all work is performed within established guidelines.

Senior leaders and the organization will look to you to provide direction, including information required for strategic planning purposes and demand management. You may be asked to prepare reports, analyze data, audit deliverables, and develop budgets. This combined with your commitment to growing your understanding of AGLC's technical infrastructure, applications, architecture, and service operation and the gaming, liquor & cannabis industries will enable you to make informed and calculated decisions and recommendations when meeting with other government departments, stakeholders and vendors within the scope of Business Analysis.

Most importantly, we are looking for an individual that gets excited at the prospect of investigating problems and contributing to unique solutions. We want someone with an inquisitive, analytical mindset who likes working with cross-functional teams. We need someone who will keep their team focused and moving forward.
